Providing Ammunition.

The mical propriety of permitting the shipping of manitions of war to the allies is bound to continue a stumblingblack to two classes of Americans. They are the sympathizers with Germany, who look at things from the point of view of German welfare, and the shortsighted peace advocates, whose paraamount interest is in having the war stopped, regardless of the issues involved. The soundness of the princiupon which the interestional law the case is based has been repeated-Is argued. Here is an item from the Well Street Journal, which presents the situation from another point of view: "For several years before the war started Retblebem was shipping from 60 per cent to 70 per cent of its ordance suspect to Germany. The Greek Language.

In ancient times, before the conquest of Alexander the Great, there were many differences in the dialects spoken in different parts of Greece. About 330 B. C. a common dialect, sometimes called Hellenistic Greek, arose. This is the Greek of the New Testament. By 800 A. D. the differences between the spoken and written language had become so great that the literary language was supplanted by the spoken. From this time the language has been further changed in grammar, inflection and by the introwas established in 1830 there has been a movement toward the ancient idiom. The following officers were elected: This has resulted again in a gap be-President, Mrs. Julia M. Perham; S. V. tween spoken and written Greek.
